CITY LAUNCHES ALL-IN-ONE HURRICANE NEWS FEED SITE

<http://city.nmb.us>

North Myrtle Beach, SC – September 12, 2018 – To make it easier for you to follow all City hurricane related information as offered through news releases, Facebook and Twitter, the City has just launched a site (<http://city.nmb.us>) that makes it possible for you to view all of these messages in one location. You do not have to have a social media account to be able to read our social media posts.

The site also contains evacuation and reentry information and will offer more as we move through the storm and into recovery.

We may temporarily replace the city's main website with this new site when we get into the thick of the storm. This would ensure our staying "live" even if we lose power.

As the storm progresses, we may switch the City's regular website over to this new site for the duration of the storm and initial recovery so that you can get all information in one convenient location.

Go to: <http://city.nmb.us>

We thank Rob Foor of our Information Services Department for creating this useful tool.
